The Lions Legacy

Helen Keller spoke to the Lions International club at the international convention and challenged them to be her "Knights of the Blind." With that motivation, Lions club members both internationally and in Wisconsin, have served for many years helping people with blindness seek a means for vision restoration.

With more than 550 clubs and 18,000 members in the state of Wisconsin, Lions and Lionesses provide an important community link helping the eye bank as Lions Eye Transporters and take part in encouraging people to sign up on the Wisconsin Donor Registry. Their support is greatly appreciated.
